

The new world in Jesus has arrived

Ladies and Gentleman it is an honor and a pleasure to have the opportunity to share with you this composed message...

At a time of worldwide austerity and global transformation, we are stepping into new challenges and opportunities for mankind focused on new human habits and needs. The world is experiencing exponential fragmentation and high interconnected complexity and although great achievements have been done, in the minds of the people of the world there still exists great confusion, as the greatest steps are yet to be done...

Man cannot cause growth, but he can supply favorable conditions. Growth is always unconscious, be it physical, intellectual, or spiritual. Evolution is a cosmic technique of growth. Social growth cannot be secured by legislation, and moral growth is not had by improved administration. Man's sole contribution to growth is the mobilization of the total powers of his personality — living faith.

At the moment If the evolution of the art of living fails to keep pace with the technique of existence, humanity will quickly revert to the simple urge of living — the attainment of the satisfaction of present desires. Thus will humanity remain immature; society will fail in growing up to full maturity.

Throughout the world, Government is an unconscious development; it evolves by trial and error. It does have survival value; therefore it becomes traditional. Anarchy augmented misery; therefore government, comparative law and order, slowly emerged and is still emerging. The coercive demands of the struggle for existence literally drove and is driving the human race along the progressive road to Global civilization...

Throughout the universe, every unit is regarded as a part of the whole. Survival of the part is dependent on co-operation with the plan and purpose of the whole.

Families, groups, nations, races are relationships of association which possess individuality; and therefore does every member of any such group, large or small, reap the benefits and suffer the consequences of the rightdoing and the wrongdoing of all other members of the group concerned

At a social level, it is the structure of the family – the cell of the society, that provides the good social development. The present state of women and children worldwide, in terms of their access to health care, nutrition, and education can not be ignored. Investment in women and children would ensure that the family structure remains intact and future generations are brought up in a healthy and secure environment.

Real families are built upon tolerance, patience, and forgiveness and in this world human family that we live in, the base is the same.

When we are born, the psychology of a child is naturally positive, not negative. So many human beings are negative because they were so trained. In the absence of wrong teaching, the mind of the normal child moves positively, in the emergence of religious consciousness, toward moral righteousness and social ministry, rather than negatively, there are still many points to be addressed in the educational side of society, to allow us to evolve into this natural positive development.

If people do wrong things, it doesn't mean that they are not good, they are directly and indirectly coming universally of goodness, beauty and truth, they were just caught in the complexity of evolutionary experimental paths, and the difficulties they all represent and in disease that can influence sane decisions. It requires faith and a great and noble character, having started out wrong, to turn about and go right. All too often one's own mind tends to justify continuance in the path of error when once it is entered upon. There is still time and the way is open, the universal hand of this goodness, beauty and truth is extended to you...

If the teachings of our friend, creator and universal ruler Jesus were left as he presented them ... all nations and all religions of the world would have quickly embraced the gospel of the kingdom of Heaven.

Each country of this world should know the cultures of all the other countries-each person should know other persons by intimate social contact with other minds, the only way to reach real understanding and avoid negative behaviors.

Through the evolutionary path, mankind's struggle to perfect a new unknown system starts by adapting it to ever-changing current needs, in channels of administration, of communication and resources. The ideal form of system must be slowly and laboriously discovered. It is imperative to increase our strength in order to find a balanced global system, so that our generations and future generations might benefit and live in perpetual balance of joy and happiness in this world.

It is imperative also , where many politicians are failing, the progressive elevation of evolution in areas like cultural ethics, civilized morality, and social coherence through global sustainable economical organized development, technological innovation, religion, regulated financial system, and global currency and laws.

Regarding earth resources and market, the pressure of the consumer system has overwhelmed human cultures and Earth's ecosystems. It may bring bigger global disaster.

This is a great opportunity to direct this wave, by transforming our cultures to center on sustainability, that allows all people to thrive while protecting, even restoring, Earth.

Regarding resources some of the major challenges for the global resources are:

- Resource security
- Resource scarcity,
- Recycling and reutilization cycles

- Managing the psychological fear or perception of resource scarcity is as important as managing the resource.
- The probability of resource wars
- The food-water-energy nexus will become crucial in the next decades
- The impact of climate change will reduce the availability of food, water and energy, thus exacerbating resource scarcity.

However, resource-caused inter-state conflict is generally allocated a relatively low probability despite the fact that the demand for each will rise substantially, with 35% more food, 40% more water and 50% more energy required to support a global population of around 8.3 billion people.

To meet the challenges of resource scarcity, the following measures could be considered:

- Innovation, both technological and institutional.
- Enhanced cooperation among states that could be achieved through the adaptation of existing rules, norms, principles and institutions.
- A global platform through which governments of resource-producing and resource-consuming countries can collaborate to ensure both supply and demand security.
- A new diplomacy. This would require the participation of multiple actors, including sovereign states, business, social entrepreneurs, non-governmental organisations, knowledge institutions, internet-based groups and individual citizens.
- Responsible global supply chains that facilitate transformation of resources from resource-producers into finished products delivered to resource-customers.
- Establish buffers for the storage of some resources such as food, oil and gas. This could reduce the risk of some emergencies in resource markets.
- Improvements in the efficiency of resource usage in order to reduce waste.
- To avoid future flashpoints caused by resource insecurity, states should consider de-linking resource issues from other concerns, particularly territorial disputes and geopolitical competition.
- The development of controlled producers' cartels has rendered integrated global supply chains increasingly more vulnerable."

Networks of local sustainable agricultures, networks of local small sustainable industry, commerce and services, there are 50 to 60% of world consumers that don't explore their own capacities. The poor according to a study of IFC, represents more than $5 Trillion of purchasing power and global service at the Base of the Pyramid.

We need to help the poor to serve the planet and others with the rich and the government and NGOs.

Population is one of the most important resources. World population will continue to grow dramatically, with increasingly ageing populations becoming a major challenge for some countries. Migration, either internally or across borders, will be a dominant trend in the future.

The global market is the best means to ensure the sustainability of resource availability, providing it is built on a normative framework including transparency, fairness and democratic principles. It should ensure the participation of all actors and establish a risk assessment system so as to create rapid response capability. Better information and enhanced cooperation among states would be needed to achieve this ideal global market.

State responsiveness

Several measures could assist states to promote the flow of resource wealth to citizens in a fair and legitimate way:

- Megacities could share information about challenges and solutions. Cooperation between mayors of these megacities would assist to generate top-down measures and improve the access of citizens to resources.
- Integrate actors from multiple social/political levels into the policy-making process. This would create pressure for accountability from the grassroots.
- Highlight the responsibility of civil servants to devise mechanisms to ensure sufficient resources. For example, introduce the model of a “traffic lights system” - especially for food and water. (This is currently used in the UK to show nutritional value on food packaging).
- Establish a social voting regime, in which a referendum could take place every 4 years on resource governance.

Progressive Interconnectivity: perceptions and actions for future resource security

- The inter-connection between resources such as oil, gas, food and fisheries require a systematic approach in order to develop policy and address their relative scarcity. However, at the international level, resource security is not addressed at, eg the UN Security Council and nationally, governments and the private sector have not collaborated efficiently to address scarcity.
- An understanding of the disconnect between the private and public sector could lead to more effective public-private sector partnerships in the future. This is challenging but could be assisted by an institutional approach with, eg regular expert meetings prompting international action to address problems such as rising food prices.
- Platforms for resource producers and consumers could be established to allow collaborative decision-making on production and consumption. This will help to reduce the resource-related vulnerability faced by both producers and consumers.
- Resources should be governed at multiple levels: global, regional, national and sub-national. Strong and effective leadership at different levels would improve the efficiency of resource governance.
- “Future Studies” could be established at universities as a distinct field of study to promote and inform long-term strategic thinking in governments and in the private sector, particularly with regard to resource security.
- A “Global Integrated Security (GIS)” initiative for resource security could be developed.

The current situation is that the United Nations and non-governmental organizations can play a significant role but there are limitations. In contrast, nation states are still the dominant actors.

But only forward-looking and progressive attitudes are personally real. Static ethics and traditional morality are just slightly super-animal. Nor is stoicism a high order of self-realization. Ethics and morals become truly human when they are dynamic and progressive, alive with universe reality. The human personality is not merely a concomitant of time-and-space events; the human personality can also act as the cosmic cause of such events, we are the builders of our Father in heaven, the builders of the eternal heaven on earth. The kingdom of heaven starts in the hearts of men and it reflects in the development of civilization.

Universe progress is characterized by increasing personality freedom because it is associated with the progressive attainment of higher and higher levels of self-understanding and consequent voluntary self-restraint.

Freedom, the freedom for evolution and peace is the gift of civilization made possible by the enforcement of law. By interpolation of information from history it can be deduced that World peace cannot be maintained by treaties, diplomacy, foreign policies, alliances, balances of power, or any other type of makeshift juggling with the sovereignties of nationalism. Like we have country law from the governments' of the countries, proper world law must come into being and must be enforced by the actual global common tendency of a one collective world governance under the spirit of truth , the spirit of Jesus— for the entire brotherhood of mankind and planet. Only then we will achieve global peace, in the day that that will happen, humankind has achieved the superior form of civilization and is properly prepared to face even new unknown difficulties.

In this sense and despite criticisms and the high adversity, the UN and G20 are the two world institutions more close to achieve world peace, and all the organizations of the world have a crucial role towards this development. World peace can only also happen in the hearts of man, by periodic paradise revelations to mankind.

How many wars we still have to go through and how many leagues of nations have to fail so that mankind start to understand the need for a world government and so that it may enjoy balanced perpetual peace and goodwill among men.

In all the problems of this world there is an equivalent opportunity, are we jointly searching for this opportunities? Global Unity for common goals is the superlative form of superior civilization, the next step of high achievement of universal reality.

And some of the major opportunities for this new age are:

1. The constant difference of resources in countries, the lack in some countries and the abundance on others will act as engine for growth and again can help to meet interests more closely. This will provide the creation of new markets and development of new technologies (for food, water, transport, communications, energy and industry in general) but this time the needs will be met more efficiently for these new opportunities. (New Global Markets)

2. Dealing with the global problems creates an opportunity for global collective management. In global problems, regional problems and local problems the need for achievement will force trust and transparency, specially in prevention of peace, to ensure security, development of solid businesses, law, environment and social coherence, these points will become much more recognised as common global responsibilities. (Global awareness)
3. The Governments become far more efficient in managing inter connected foreign and internal issues, that leads to an increased ability to manage complex international and national systems and a more influential presence in the global system, and in this period of knowledge and IT, society will become more close and motivated in several new activities in understanding the differences of all the cultures, shrinking the global distance and creating a sense of global responsibility. (Global efficiency)
4. This pause period of post-growth and the global economic crisis provided an opportunity for the UN to be reformed internally and externally. The UN is the only world institution more close to bring world peace and with transparency can serve as the way of communication for countries and organisations, and have with all the connected organisations a great emerging role in global governance. (Global governance).
5. The growth and awareness of international law offers a protection and shape of society to individuals and states. International law will improve the society in a global scale. There is a possibility, with the UN, of legal systems being used to channel diplomatic, military, political and business disputes. (Global law)
6. The opportunity to bring humanity back to God and Jesus under a new heavenly revelation for a new age (Universal Spiritual awakening)

The pouring out of the Spirit of Truth provides the spiritual foundation for the realization of great achievements in the interests of the human race of the world. Earth is therefore far better prepared for the more immediate realization of a planetary progressive government with its laws, mechanisms, symbols, conventions, and language — all of which could contribute so mightily to the establishment of world-wide peace under law and could lead to the sometime dawning of a real age of spiritual striving.

In a shared idea for an organized world and a global progressive public administration that can promise to administer the varying rights with fairness and equity, engaged in a universally spiritualized-humanized and compassionate government, economies that reward effort, civilization that returned to God, communities that protect the weak, society and the environment we will need:

1. The self-government – freedom to do the will of God, self-control and the sense of duty and moral from citizens.
2. The local government-supportive to NGOs
3. The regional government-countries
4. The central or global government – Reformed United nations with shared sovereignty of merciful-moral law for people, earth, space and universal affairs,
5. The supporting NGOs from all over the world
6. The United nations organizations
7. Supporting groups of countries to the central government by their status:
  - G20
  - Fragile state groups
  - BRICS
  - Commercial state groups
  - And others...

And regardless of the ups and downs of the miscarriage of the plans for world betterment projected, the basic organic evolution of the human species continues to carry the races forward in the scale of human progress and racial development. Evolution can be delayed but it cannot be stopped.

In this time of crisis, the most immediate and the most important need are really the children, they will walk the bridge though chaos so that the next generations may proceed in balance, and mercy is needed for adults and all the attention should be focused on children, no matter what happens in the world, because they are the reconstruction of earth and the future of the human race in an ever-expanding and progressing universal identity.

Regarding women empowerment and equality, can they be the good solution for overpopulation ? (beside also space colonialism) when women are instructed and educated, they are more wise in planning family (less births), and also if women work they will not have time to have many kids, besides that, the educated woman are more capable to brought up stronger children (that can better contribute to society) and they will understand better the right to chose to have or not to have children.

Regarding religious believe, the search for God is eternal, meaning that knowledge about God is ending in eternity and starting on the hearts of human beings, country leaders should understand the importance of religious freedom under the Universal declaration of human rights from the UN, religion to be efficient, needs to be dynamic and evolutionary like love it self is, and it can only happen in openness, respect and humility.

It is the business and duty of society created by all of you leaders of the world, to protect our planet, our woman and children, our close relation with God, our economical development and provide the child of nature with a fair and peaceful opportunity to pursue self-maintenance, participate in self-perpetuation, while at the same time enjoying some measure of self-gratification, the sum of all three constituting human happiness. (Duty and society)

Ambition Must Get Its Satisfaction by Serving Humanity...and there can be no brotherhood of men without the recognition of the Fatherhood of our Paradise Universal Father - God

And finally the prerequisites of progressive government and the earmarks of ideal statehood are:

1. The creation of a threefold government of executive, legislative, and judicial branches.
2. The freedom of social, political, and religious activities.
3. The abolition of all forms of slavery and human bondage.
4. The ability of the citizenry to control the levying of taxes.
5. The establishment of universal education — learning extended from the cradle to the grave.
6. The proper adjustment between local, national and central governments.
7. The fostering of science and the conquest of disease.
8. The due recognition of sex equality and the co-ordinated functioning of men and women in the home, school, and church, with specialized service of women in industry and government.
9. The elimination of toiling slavery by inventions and the subsequent mastery of the technological age.
10. The conquest of dialects — the triumph of a universal language.
11. The ending of war — international adjudication of national and racial differences by continental courts of nations presided over by a supreme planetary tribunal automatically recruited from the periodically retiring heads of the continental courts. The continental courts are authoritative; the world court is advisory — moral.
12. The world-wide vogue of the pursuit of wisdom — the exaltation of philosophy. The evolution of a world religion, which will presage the entrance of the planet upon the earlier phases of higher spiritual and intellectual realms.

There is a great and glorious purpose in the march of the universes through space. All of our mortal struggling is not in vain. We are all part of an immense plan, a gigantic enterprise, and it is the vastness of the undertaking that renders it impossible to see very much of it at any one time and during any one life. We are all a part of an eternal project which the heavens are supervising and outworking. The whole marvelous and universal mechanism moves on majestically through space to the music of the meter of the infinite thought and the eternal purpose of our Father that is in paradise heaven. This progressive NEW WORLD IN JESUS is The Voice of Wisdom-The Soul of Philosophy- The Union of Souls-The Heart of Counsel- The Joy of Existence-The Satisfaction of Service and Memory of Mercy.

Earth is far from the realization of these exalted ideals, but we now have in this planet all the resources we need to solve the problems that we are facing and let us stand up, as we the civilized races have here and now made a beginning — mankind is on the march toward higher evolutionary destinies, and under the will, love, mercy and ministry of the arms of our dear heavenly Father we are already all together, so let us be part of this whole under this new progressive and dynamic NEW WORLD IN JESUS throughout the ages to come, and may this hand of destiny that have the strong arm of GOD behind it be with us ALL.

Thank you
